What is the Color Blast 5K?

The Color Blast 5K is an untimed (3.1mile) running/walking social event through our beautiful Downtown Owensboro area. Runners and spectators can experience a Blast with our six, non-toxic, colored powder being tossed at every mile marker along the run. The Color Blast 5K is hosted by local non-profit organizations as a fundraising event, and although it is similar to the notorious color run we are not affiliated.

Where's the Color?

Color stations will be located around the race route. At the color stations you will be showered with brightly colored powder turning your white shirt into a color explosion. Additional color bursts will take place at the finish line party zone where there will be live entertainment, food, and other cool stuff. The color comes from eco-friendly colored cornstarch with food grade coloring, which is purchased through a manufacturer.

How does it work?

The first 1,000 people to register are guaranteed to receive a white, long sleeve Color Blast 5K t-shirt and a pre-packaged color for race day and after party. No matter what, wear white clothes if you really want your colors to show, but don't wear anything that you really care about-including your shoes. Most of the powder will come out, but there may be some residue. More information will be sent to you closer to race day.
